Polyvagal Theory: Principles & Practice for Individuals

Format: 3-hour recorded on demand teaching modules plus 1-hour recorded Q & A

Price: $150

Contact: info@polyvagal.org

CE's: 4.0 available for purchase

Course Instructor: Deb Dana, LCSW

COURSE DESCRIPTION

In the last few years there has been groundbreaking neuroscience research that has fundamentally changed our understanding of how trauma, adverse childhood experiences and chronic stress impact individuals psychologically, physiologically, emotionally and socially. Polyvagal Theory provides a guide to a new view of well-being through understanding the body's nervous system. With Polyvagal Theory we have a framework to explore the ways experience shapes the nervous system and the pathways that lead to healing.

This workshop presents the organizing principles of Polyvagal Theory in combination with practices that bring the theory into practical application through recorded teaching modules with master clinician Deb Dana. This is an introductory webinar for individuals who wish to explore the key principles of Polyvagal Theory and how to bring them into clinical practice.

This is an introductory level course for individuals. The main areas the workshop will cover are:

- The three organizing principles of Polyvagal Theory: Neuroception, Hierarchy, Co-Regulation
- The vagal brake
- The Social Engagement System
- Basic befriending skills: Personal Profile Map, Story of States, Ventral Vagal Anchors
- Becoming Polyvagal informed

TARGET AUDIENCE

Psychologists, Psychoanalysts, Psychiatrists (only partial credit for MDs via APA), Social Workers, MFTs, Counselors, Substance Abuse Counselors, Occupational Therapists, Nurses, Dentists
